COL. MORTON AS MARSHAL

WIII Be at Head of State Fair Celebration.

CHARTER TO TRUST CO

Rocky Mount Savings and Trust Company with Authorized Capital of $100,000 - Military Being Paid Off.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALDIGH, N. C., September 11.-Colonel George L. Morton, of Wilmington, was selected to-day as chief marshal for the State fair to be held October 22d to 20th. He was Speaker pro tem. of the last House of Hepresentatives and has filled high civic and military positions, besides possessing high scoular prestige, which eminently qualify him to fill the chief marshalship most successfully.

An order has been made by Adjutant-General Royster for Paymaster-General Walker Taylor, of Wilmington, to issue at once the first semi annual checks of $125 to each of the thirty-nine companies of the North Carolina National Guard, which pased successfully the recent annual inspection by Major Newton.

It is funderstood now that the Lumber Bridge Light Infantry disbanded because of poor showing made at inspection, will not be reinstated. There is gnly the one vacancy in the State Guard and there are other towns pleading for admission, selected to-day as chief marshal for the TRUST COMPANY CHARTERED.

A charter was granted to-day for the Rocky Mount Savings and Trust Company: capital, 125,000 authorized and $10,000 subscribed; Among the incorporators are Thomas Ri Battle, L. S. Tilery and A. P. Thottp. "Charles Owen, a white convict, was brought here from Transylvania county yesterday to serve seven years in the pentientiary for manslaughter.

A large delegation from the Raleigh Retail Clerks' Union went to Durham last night to take part in the organization of a clerks' union there.

Chairman McNelli, of the Corporation Commission, says the commission was struck during their recent inspection of the Asheville and Spartanburg and South Carolina and Georgia with the extensive work of improving the track all along these divisions of the Southern.

Sick Child—Durham News.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch)

DURHAM, N. C., Sept. 11—To-night was the time for the opening of the antisaloon fight in this city. Rev. George R. Stuart, of Claveland, Tenn., who was advertised as being one of the greatest temperance lecturers on the American stage to-day, was to have fired the first gun in a lecture at the Parrish tobacco warehouse this evening, but wires that he could not come on account of his child being extremely ill with typhoid fever. The meeting was immediately called off. Seats had been prepared for two thousand people, and it was expected that a large crowd would have heard him.

While this would have been the first gun in the anti-whiskey fight, the failure of Rev. Mr. Stuart to get here only postpones the opening of the campaign a few days. He will come later, and other noted speakors will come. The fight will be a warm one. For several days the Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League has had out canvasers, who have been getting signers for the call for election. Under the new Watts law it is necessary to get one-third of the voters to sign a call before the election can be ordered. It is stated now that more than enough have signed.

of winning out. The election will be held on November 3d. The fight is to close all salons without having a dispensary.

The Chamber of Commerce has been agitating another hotel for Durham, and plans are now being made for a hotel on Main Birest, with about seventy-five rooms. Mr. B. L. Duke is to have this building erected, iln connection with the new hotel will be a first-class cafe. Mr. Duke has not yet decided when he will begin work on the new building.

Trinity College and Trinity High. School have both opened, with more students than ever before. The dormitories at the High School are filled to overflowing, and the students are getting private boarding-houses. The contract will soon be let for the erection of a handsome new dormitory building, this to be completed by the beginning of the spring term. The Southern Conservatory of Music also opened this week with a large attendance.

The clerks of the city have organized ance.

The clerks of the clity have organized a union, a branch of the national union, and the charter members were initiated last night. The 'union has about fifty charter members. The clerks are to ask the merchants for shorter hours within a few days, and the organization was brought about for this purpose. Most of the merchants are in sympathy with the move, and no serious trouble is expected.

SUES FOR DAMAGES

Action for $20,000 Brought by Admin-Istrator of Joseph C. Meier.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 11.-Frank Meler, administrator of Joseph C. Meler Meler, administrator to 30 sept. who was run over and mangled by a suburban car several miles from Wilmington two weeks ago, sas brought suit against the consolidated company for $20,000 damages. The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the motorman, and also a lack of proper car equipment, such as fenders and air-brakes, to prescribe to the law.

Meter's body was run over and manged by a car about midnight. The coroner's jury could not decide whether he was killed by the car or murdered by an unknown party and his body placed on the track to cover the crime.

SHOT GRANDSON FOR A SQUIRREL

Horrible Accident to a South Carolina Editor.

(Special to The Times-Dispatchi) CHARLOTTE, N. C., September 11.-Major J. M. Riddle, associate editor of the Lancaster Review, at Lancaster, S. C., and one of the best known citizens of that place, shot and instantly killed his little eight-year-old grandson, Robert Mackorell.

The scene of the awful tragedy was on

The scene of the awful tragedy was on the banks of the Catawba Rivar, about seven miles from Lancaster.

At an early hour this morning, Major Riddle, accompanied by his son, James Riddle, and little grandson, Robert Mackorell, went to the Catawba River hunting squirrels. The bors were stationed at a certain tree, while Major Riddle went some distance down the river to a clump of hickory trees. During Major Riddle's absence Robert Mackorell climbed one of the trees and was sitting in the forks, while James Riddle went in search of squirrels.

In the forks, while James Riddle went in search of squirrels.

During the absence of young Riddle Major Riddle returned to the spot where he had left the boys. As he could see no trace of them, he supposed they had gone up the riyer. While engaged in, looking through the leaves of a small hickory tree he saw one of the branches move. Thinking it was a squirrel he pointed his gun at the spot and fired. To his great horror, what he had taken for a squirrel was his little grandson. At the report of the gun little Robert Mackorell fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet, and expired in a few minutes.

The entire discharge of the gun had entered the child's head, causing death almost instantly.

Lewis was present for the government, and the prisoner was represented by a colored attorney named Randolph. A number of witnesses were placed on the stand and examined and cross-examined by the opposing attorneys. For the government. Colonel W. G. Beach, a special seent of the revenue department: Deputy Marshal U. M. Bland, who made the arrest: H. L. Terry, James Glasgow and Captain A. M. Tomlinson, of the detectice department of the city police force, and Cashier Glover, of the Broad-Street Eank, were the chief witnesses.

For the prisoner, W. M. Anderson, coloned; S. E. Bales, Jr., of the First National Bank; B. L. Turner, G. W. Bragg and W. A. Johnson were put on.

From the testimony it appears that Colonel Beach, who was at Donati's bar, on Eighteenth Street, looking after another mantalking of the counterfeit shin plasters, and becoming interested, heard sufficient to warrant his suspicions. He followed the two out, after identifying Harris as the man who had stated he had the goods. After discussing the subject and examining the counterfeit, he was satisfied it was such, and as inquiry did not elicit information fully establishing the innocence of the accused, he reported the matter, swore out a warrant, and it was executed by Deputy Marshal Bland.

Captain Tomlinson, of the police detective department, deserves much of the credit for working up the case, having contributed much to the information of the Federal officials. On the stand he detailed his knowledge of the case.

contributed much to the information of the Federal officials. On the stand he detailed his knowledge of the case.

James Glasgow testified that he bought two of the notes at fifty cents each as curlos, and sold them to another man for sixty cents.

The testimony adduced was substantially the same as printed in this paper the day after the arrest. Harris claimed the money was found by another colored man and turned over to him. He wrote to the department at Washington and sent one of the notes, asking if it was genuine. The reply received the day before the arrest of the man assured him that the money was counterfelt. Cashier Glover had informed Harris that the notes in his opinion were not good.

It developed from the testimony that Harris tried to dispose of the bogus notes after he had reason to believe they were not genuine currency.

After fully hearing the testimony the Commissioner sent the man on and increased his ball, as stated. The case will came before the grand jury at the next term. It is doubtful whether the man's guilt can be established to the satisfaction of a jury unless the testimony is greatly strengthened in the meantime.

Cardwell, of Hanover, are urging him to enter the race, but so far he has not said what he will do with reference to the matter. Down in the Scood District, Mr. Maynard will have to fight for renomination in all probability, as several gentlemen are said to be considering the matter of entering the lists against him.

Among them is Colonel E. E. Holland, of Supffolk, who is a 'strong lawyer and a man of widespread popularity.

So far, no opposition has been suggested to the return of Messrs. Glass, Jones, Southall. Swanson, Hay, Rixey, or Flood, though in politics it is hard to tell what a day will bring forth, to say nothing of a year.
